EATON'S

*Think of the many times
you wear a Sportcoat!*

Stop! Think about it for a moment! Just how many times do you don your sports coat? For classes... fraternity "do's"... dances... movie dates... in fact, you can wear them almost anywhere except to a formal! EATON'S has hundreds of jackets in plains, bold and subdued plaids and checks, novelty weaves and tweeds. Come in choose a new one, give yourself a change of scenery.

SALUTE TO VALOUR

IN the past three decades, the clarion call to arms sounded twice over Loyola's campus. Textbooks were put aside as hundreds of Loyola men responded to the call and joined their alumni comrades in waging the battle for freedom and peace.

Many score of them did not return. Theirs was the supreme sacrifice which has been recorded in the cost of Victory. They, who were once an integral part of Loyola and its traditions, are remembered to-day, not as mere heroes, but as part of that gallant force of Loyola men who gave so much that others might live.

Their traditions were those of Loyola. The quiet beauty of her buildings, classrooms, stadium and gridiron have heard the ring of their voices at work and at play. Loyola remembers their spirited efforts to win glory and honour for the college they had learned to love and respect. These men possessed the combined qualities of gentlemen, students and athletes. They carried these qualities with them into battle as great men who once stood on the threshold of Loyola's greatness.

Their love for athletics, and particularly football, was second to their fondness for Loyola. As their comrades who knew them as students and soldiers, we remember them to-day. To their valiant memory we dedicate this new grid classic to be held every year on this field, the one on which they, too, once did play. The proceeds from these Bowl Games will go toward the furtherance of athletics at their Alma Mater so that their heritage might live on.

It is with pride and deep respect that we inaugurate this athletic tribute to these heroic athletes.

Who Was Our "GREATEST"?

By ANDY O'BRIEN '31

(SPORTS EDITOR — The Standard)

Early in May, 1940, a bunch of the Loyola Alumni boys were whoopin' it up at the St. Denis Club in honor of a fellow alumnus from Mexico, Pedro Suinaga, and his comely wife. As the gab-and-grub session came to an uncertain close, Mrs. Suinaga sighed and asked in a lilting accent:

"Please tell me — when my husband was attending Loyola was he also mayor of Montreal?"

The answer was: "No, but he could have been."

There'll be a lot of grid post-morteming done this weekend as the Alumni Memorial Bowl Game provides some good reason for same. There'll be a lot of "greats" dug up who would listen with considerable surprise to how wonderful they were WHEN. There'll be a lot of truly great "greats" ignored in the delightful shuffle. But there should be no argument about who was the Maroon and White's all-time greatest. Pedro Suinaga is the one.

It might amaze a lot of old boys to realize that Pedro graduated about 22 years ago but we're all getting older, chums. Anyway, it seems a certainty that if Pedro hadn't hopped back to Mexico immediately after graduation he could have written history into the major circuits. Which fact is even more notable when considering that he had never seen a rugby game or a football prior to entering Loyola. Yet, within two years, the son-of-a-gun was outbooting and outplaying Canadian aces such as Ralph St. Germain! In his spare time, he was teaming with Archie MacDonald to form an intercollegiate debating championship duo that has never been matched in Loyola — also a notable achievement in view of Pedro's inability to speak English on coming here!

Thoroughly lion-hearted in a grid fray, his main bid for immortality around town lay in his unbelievable kicking feats WITH BOTH FEET!

In the final game for the Dominion intermediate title in 1924, Loyola faced Queen's at Molson Stadium. His two drop-kicks of that afternoon made history. His first was from the centerfield line — 55 yards out — and the ball bounced off the crossbar to flip over for a score! Shortly afterwards, he booted another drop from the 50 and it knifed the uprights cleanly. That totalled six points — the only six Loyola scored in losing 7-6.

Weighing about 170 pounds, he was a blasting plunger who gathered momentum with practically no preliminary run. He carried his cleats high and, in a junior playoff against Ottawa Rideaus in 1923, is credited by Doug "Pop" Kerr, ex-McGill coach, with licking the Bytowners single-handed!

It was typical of Pedro that anything he turned to in the way of athletics brought out his natural skill. There was no rugby played in Mexico City on his return to the Mexican University for his law degree. So he took up soccer. In no time at all, he was named to the All-Mexico team and starred with that team in the 1928 Olympics at Amsterdam. But he suffered an injury at the Games which forced him to abandon vigorous sports. So he turned his attention to golf — and where do you think he ended?

You're right — as Mexican golf champion!

OTTAWA UNIVERSITY SONG

Let us sing, let us sing,
Let our voices gladly ring,
Singing praises for old Ottawa U.
Lots of pep, watch your step,
For today we make a rep —
Reputation for old Ottawa U.

And it's U! U! U!
For our Ottawa U.
We'll sing her praises loud and long,
And where e'er we go,
We'll let the whole world know
That we're proud of our old Ottawa U.
Rah! Rah!
That we're proud of our old Ottawa U.

THE LOYOLA VICTORY SONG

Verse

Hail to the men of brawn
Who bear our glory on!
Hail to the fighters bold!!
Against all foes they hold.
Cheer till the day is done
And the battle nobly won;
Chant her glory, chant her name
And sing Loyola's fame.

Chorus

Make the thunder echo your song,
Cheer your warriors charging on;
Odds don't count with men who fight
For old Maroon and White.
Rah! Rah! Rah!
Fighters all who never give in,
Loyola men are out to win:
Marching on to victory —
Fighting on with loyalty —
When Loyola hears the call to Fight! Fight! Fight!
